

In the last magazine Dick Prior said he found Miss Sheffield's lesson boring. Different for me as she taught us History, English and R.E. - subjects I still love today due to her inspiration.

I remember some of the male teachers returning from service life, especially Mr. Gaskell. It was easy to get him to tell us stories at the Met office instead of our Geography lesson. It must have been hard for the men returning to teach unwilling pupils.

I remember most of the staff with affection and how they were so patient signing our autograph books ~~at~~ at the end of term. I still have mine with Johnnie Trickett's famous lucky bird he drew.

I am in touch with Ann Bugden and Barbara Mowton and Jessie Miller who all speak of happy times during Sports Week and the "FESTIVAL" week where all talents were recognised. I do wish the reunion a happy day and wish I could be there.

Yours Sincerely, Erica Maitland.
